Followership in Action

Cases and Commentaries
Followership in Action
Cases and Commentaries

Lead Editor
Rob Koonce
Creighton University, Omaha, NE, USA

Associate Editors
Michelle C. Bligh
Neoma Business School, Mont-Saint-Aignan, France
Melissa K. Carsten
Winthrop University, Rock Hill, SC, USA
Marc Hurwitz
University of Waterloo, Waterloo, Canada

United Kingdom – North America – Japan
India – Malaysia – China
As one who has witnessed and experienced the power of followers whose actions have ranged from indifference, harm, or goodness, I commend this book because it reminds us we all must act—act with conviction and courage to ensure the betterment of our institutions and society as a whole.

— Edith Eva Eger, Clinical Psychologist, Auschwitz Survivor

Once your eyes are opened to “followership,” you will see it everywhere. This very fine collection of case studies and thought provoking essays sheds new light on the role that followership plays in every field from business to the arts, as well as the importance of followership to an organization’s (and a leader’s) success.

— Robert Kelley, Carnegie Mellon University

This book has everything — memorable teaching stories, academic analysis, global contributions, every day examples, headline grabbing events and provocative dialogue-starting questions. There isn’t anything like it yet in the field of Followership. What a great addition!

— Ira Chaleff, Author, The Courageous Follower: Standing Up To and For Our Leaders, and Intelligent Disobedience: Doing Right When What You’re Told To Do Is Wrong

Followership in Action reflects the vital interplay between practice and theory and theory and practice. The editors of this volume and each of the book’s contributors, skillfully and creatively address the opportunities, challenges, and ethics of what it means to be leader and follower — the critical importance of generative capacity, interrelationships, and authentic engagement. It is an important contribution to the field that should be read by many.

— Hallie Preskill, Managing Director, FSG

Followership in Action gives a long overdue voice to the “silent partners” in the leader-follower relationship. This collection of engaging cases and commentaries provides readers with a scholarly and practical introduction to the challenges facing followers in business, education, the military, the government, and other settings. Theoretical commentary and discussion questions equip students, faculty and practitioners to explore these issues in depth.
Followership in Action is truly a global treatment of followership, with contributors drawn from Europe, Asia, the United Kingdom and North America.

— Craig E. Johnson, Professor of Leadership Studies, George Fox University and Author, Meeting the Ethical Challenges of Leadership

Without Followership, there can’t be Leadership! Drawn from business, education, the arts, government and the military, these crisp and compelling stories are a “must read” for all who want their workplace to be productive and their organization to be at the top of its game.

— Meena S. Wilson, Senior Enterprise Associate, Center for Creative Leadership India and Author, Developing Tomorrows’ Leaders Today: Insights from Corporate India
Contents

List of Contributors xi
Introduction xv

Section I Business

CHAPTER 1 All in “The Family”: Leading and Following through Individual, Relational, and Collective Mindsets
Rob Koonce 3

CHAPTER 2 A Match Made of Mission
Susan Keim 15

CHAPTER 3 Followers Alert a Leader
B. Ariel Blair 23

CHAPTER 4 The Acquired Executive
Marc Hurwitz 31

CHAPTER 5 Integrating Conflict and Releasing Creative Energy: A Case for Mary Parker Follett
Suzanne Martin 41

CHAPTER 6 Corporate President as Follower
Rushton ‘Rusty’ Ricketson Sr and W. David Winner 49

CHAPTER 7 In Whom Do We Invest?
Eric Downing and Jennifer Moss Breen 57

CHAPTER 8 Followership and the Paradox of Promotion
Rob Koonce, Kimberley A. Koonce and Sharon Armstead 67

CHAPTER 9 Just in Time Followership
Rhonda K. Rodgers and Michelle C. Bligh 75
CHAPTER 10 Diversity, Inclusion, and Followership
James H. Schindler and Sonya Rogers 83

CHAPTER 11 The Importance of Followership and Reputation in an HR Consulting Firm
Debra Finlayson and William S. Harvey 91

Section II Education and the Arts

CHAPTER 12 Dancing Leader
Rens van Loon and Karlijn Kouwenhoven 101

CHAPTER 13 Shattered Dream of a University Professor
Tanuja Agarwala 109

CHAPTER 14 Artist as Apprentice: Reexamining Distance in the Leader-Follower Relationship
Kimberley A. Koonce 119

CHAPTER 15 Online Cybersecurity Courses: Dissent and Followership
Steven Lee Smith 125

CHAPTER 16 Who’s in Charge of a Residential College?: Student-led Seminars as an Example of Followership in Action
Eric K. Kaufman 133

CHAPTER 17 Followership in Service Organizations: An English Secondary School Case of Distributed Leadership
Andrew Francis and Thomas Bisschoff 143

Section III Ethics, Government, and Military

CHAPTER 18 The Interplay of Follower and Leader Ethics: A Case Study of the Film “The Wave”
Kae Reynolds 153

CHAPTER 19 Leaders, Followers, and Failures at the VHA
Heather Getha-Taylor 163
CHAPTER 20  To Follow or not to Follow? A Tale of Corrupt Power and Unethical Leadership
Melissa K. Carsten  171

CHAPTER 21  Followership, Hierarchies, and Communication: Achieving or Negotiating Buy-in within the Public Sector?
Rachael Morris and Sandra Corlett  179

CHAPTER 22  A Mistake in the Numbers
Marc Hurwitz  187

CHAPTER 23  Responding to Perceptions of Electoral Fraud: Followership, Emotions, and Collective Action from Malaysia’s 13th General Election
Eugene Y. J. Tee, Douglas S. E. Teoh and TamilSelvan Ramis  195

CHAPTER 24  Leading from the Middle: Effective Followership
Ted Thomas and Paul Berg  205

CHAPTER 25  Bernie Madoff’s Inner Circle
Rodger Adair  215

About the Editors  225
About the Authors  227
Case Matrix  235
List of Contributors

Rodger Adair  DeVry University, Mesa, AZ, USA
Tanuja Agarwala  Faculty of Management Studies, University of Delhi, Delhi, India
Sharon Armstead  Texas State University, Cedar Park, TX, USA
Paul Berg  U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, KS, USA
Thomas Bisschoff  College of Social Sciences, University of Birmingham, Birmingham, UK
B. Ariel Blair  Claremont Graduate University, Claremont, CA, USA
Michelle C. Bligh  Neoma Business School, Mont-Saint-Aignan, France
Melissa K. Carsten  Winthrop University, Rock Hill, SC, USA
Sandra Corlett  Newcastle Business School, Northumbria University, Newcastle upon Tyne, UK
Eric Downing  Pioneer Investments, Inc., Boston, MA, USA
Debra Finlayson  Vertical Bridge Corporate Consulting Inc., Vancouver, Canada
Andrew Francis  Hertfordshire Business School, University of Hertfordshire, Hatfield, UK
Heather Getha-Taylor  School of Public Affairs and Administration, University of Kansas, Lawrence, KS, USA
LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Affiliation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>William S. Harvey</td>
<td>University of Exeter Business School, Exeter, UK</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marc Hurwitz</td>
<td>University of Waterloo, Waterloo, Canada</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eric K. Kaufman</td>
<td>Honors Residential College, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Susan Keim</td>
<td>Donnelly College, Kansas City, KS, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kimberley A. Koonce</td>
<td>Ohio Christian University, Circleville, OH, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rob Koonce</td>
<td>Creighton University, Omaha, NE, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Karlijn Kouwenhoven</td>
<td>Deloitte Consulting, Den Haag, The Netherlands</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suzanne Martin</td>
<td>transform., Birmingham, AL, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rachael Morris</td>
<td>Newcastle Business School, Northumbria University, Newcastle upon Tyne, UK</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jennifer Moss Breen</td>
<td>Creighton University, Omaha, NE, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TamilSelvan Ramis</td>
<td>HELP University, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kae Reynolds</td>
<td>The Business School, University of Huddersfield, Huddersfield, UK</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rushton ‘Rusty’ Ricketson Sr</td>
<td>Luther Rice College and Seminary, Lithonia, GA, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rhonda K. Rodgers</td>
<td>Claremont Graduate University, Claremont, CA, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sonya Rogers</td>
<td>Columbia Southern University, Orange Beach, AL, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James H. Schindler</td>
<td>Columbia Southern University, Orange Beach, AL, USA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steven Lee Smith</td>
<td>Co-Founder, The Human Business, Flagstaff, AZ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eugene Y. J. Tee</td>
<td>HELP University, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
List of Contributors

Douglas S. E. Teoh  University of Nottingham, Malaysia
                   Campus, Semenyih, Malaysia

Ted Thomas        U.S. Army Command and General
                   Staff College, Fort Leavenworth,
                   KS, USA

Rens van Loon     Tilburg University, Tilburg,
                   The Netherlands

W. David Winner   Regent University, Virginia Beach,
                   VA, USA
Introduction

Research suggests that followers contribute an average of 80% to the success of organizations. Yet leading management scholars have argued for nearly a century that we too often assume the contributions of followers are an effect rather than a cause of that success. Followership in Action responds to this assumption by offering compelling cases and commentaries written from the diverse perspectives of more than 30 scholars and practitioners from Canada, France, India, Malaysia, the Netherlands, the United Kingdom, and the United States who lend support to the notion that followership is more than an outcome of leadership.

Although followership as a formal discipline is less than a century old, the applied organizational contexts of followership have existed since antiquity. As the study of followership further escalates into the global mainstream of leadership studies, the need accelerates for leaders to enable followers to be more productive for the cause. Through the use of story in case studies, scholarly post-commentaries, and discussion questions posed for furthering classroom and organizational dialogue, Followership in Action offers an excellent way to more proactively engage future leaders and followers in issues that they are likely to face in various organizational settings.

Followership in Action is a highly practical and scholarly book to which leadership scholars, practitioners, and students will actively turn to better understand and apply followership theory to everyday human resource development, management, and leadership contexts. It was written with administrators, coaches, consultants, executives, human resource professionals, academic professors, and support staff fully in mind. Its content will appeal to academia, corporations, non-profits, and other for profit enterprises.

Editorial Reflection

Several years ago, I vividly remember being first introduced to the term organizational capacity. I deeply resonated with the potential of the term and have since been captivated by its implications. Over the past decade, the relevance of the term has become increasingly noteworthy to me as the result of what I continue to see and experience in the world.

In the pursuit of my doctoral studies, my thoughts concerning organizational capacity turned to an organization’s relational capacity. Well into the literature review for my dissertation, I literally stumbled across a journal article on verbal communication that specifically referenced the term leader-follower relations. It was a defining moment that extended well beyond what I was researching at the time. It altered the trajectory of my professional life.

I would be remiss not to mention a third term that stirred my passion for wanting to write this book. Appreciative Inquiry teaches that the generative capacity of an organization is limited by our appreciation for what is, imagining what might be, determining what should be, and creating what will be. This generativity, or lack thereof, begins with individuals who as active and passive participants influence relationships which, in turn, drive organizational processes.

ORGANIZATIONAL CAPACITY, RELATIONAL CAPACITY, AND GENERATIVE CAPACITY

Each of these provocative notions feed my interest in followership and leadership. In the complex and ever changing world in which we live, leading and following is at the heart of generative organizational processes. To accept something less than what an organization is capable of achieving is truly beyond me, yet as evidenced by the cases and commentaries in this book, organizations do it every day. An understanding of, and appreciation for, followership in the leadership literature can lead to more generative organizational processes. It was for this purpose that this book was written. This point also leads to a bigger question that was first entertained in writing the proposal for the book, that is, how can we teach these ideas to others? How can we more effectively integrate followership into our leadership curricula and workplace settings?

An initial response to that question came one day while using two of my favorite texts for teaching negotiation and conflict resolution. One of the texts is more scholarly, while the other is more practical. I have always been drawn by the ability to practically apply what I am teaching to others. I asked the question of what those two texts might look like if combined into a single text. That initial mental note ultimately led to the creation of Followership in Action.

Followership in Action was purposely written with three different audiences in mind: scholars, practitioners, and students. Each of the contributors to this groundbreaking volume on followership was made keenly aware of the editors’ intentions to address these unique audiences while offering content to which each audience would relate. We believe that our desire has been firmly captured in the following pages by those who have constructed the cases and commentaries in this book. We thank each of the authors of this volume for their unique contribution. We also wish to thank Emerald Group Publishing for having the vision to pursue this project.

We now invite each reader to stand with us on the stairs of Followership in Action as it relates to the various topics of the book which include the arts, business, education, ethics, and government. We hope that you enjoy what this book offers and wish to hear how you are using it in your academic classroom or other corporate, for-profit, not-for-profit, or non-profit setting.

Rob Koonce
Lead Editor
Section I
Business
CHAPTER 1

All in “The Family”:
Leading and Following through Individual, Relational, and Collective Mindsets

Rob Koonce

Jon and KayAnn described their first experience in meeting Jim Madden, the CEO of AmTour, Inc., as something that had come straight out of a manual for how to build a positive relationship between a franchisor and franchisees. Jon and KayAnn were aspiring entrepreneurs and AmTour, Inc. seemed like the opportunity of a lifetime. Give up everything that you have financially, sign a multi-year contract, and off you go. Like so many franchisees before them, they were drawn by the opportunity to chase the dream of owning a business and franchising seemed so attractive. AmTour’s professional marketing program offered just what they needed to attract clients and Jon and KayAnn were promised the independence that they desired to run the franchise as they saw fit. After hearing Jim Madden’s initial sales pitch and meeting some of AmTour’s key staff and successful franchisees, Jon and KayAnn were raring to go.

Many years later as I sat with Jon and KayAnn recounting the details of their former affiliation with AmTour, Inc., Jon recalled being hyperenergized by what he and KayAnn had experienced in their first year as franchise owners. He spoke openly about what the first convention had meant to him. It was all about hearing how other franchisees had successfully built million dollar enterprises and meeting newcomers like he and KayAnn. In the opening